

Kronberger Kreis - Scientific Council

More confidence in market processes...
...is the motto of the Kronberger Kreis.

Thwarting the expansion of the paternalistic state and contributing to the advancement of free society in Germany and Europe using consistent market-oriented ideas: these are the goals of the Kronberger Kreis, Scientific Advisory Board of the Stiftung Marktwirtschaft (Market Economy Foundation), founded in 1982 upon the initiative of Wolfram Engels and leading contemporary economic and legal scholars.

The Kronberger Kreis provides numerous studies and arguments for market-oriented solutions to crucial challenges in German and European economic policy. In many cases, it has been the intellect behind indispensable reforms. Its proposals regarding business taxation, social security, labor market regulation, and public administration have had a significant influence on economic and political discussions. Numerous elements of its reform proposals have found their way into German and European law.
